

Dr. Peta Cassimatis

1414 Logan Rd

Mt Gravatt

4222

10/02/2010

Dear Dr. Cassimatis:

Re: Mrs. Alison Martin; a 28 year old teacher.

I am writing to refer Mrs. Martin who has signs and symptoms consistent with schizophrenia.

Mrs. Martin is married with two children aged 4 years and 10 months. She is living with her husband's parents. She has a family history of Risperidone responsive schizophrenia.

When she visited me on 09.01.2010 she was complaining of lack of interest in work, low grade temperature, and tiredness. She had lost her appetite and weight. The examination was normal and she was advised to relax , to start regular exercise and to maintain a temperature chart.

Comment: Incorrect spelling : lack

She visited me again on 20.01.2010. She had had poor concentration at work and had complained that her mother in law had been against her. She had complained of sleep disturbance and difficulty in coping with her children. On examination , she was mildly depressed with little eye contact. Relaxation therapy and counseling were planned. Diazepam 10 mg tablets at night and paracetamol tablets on need were prescribed. To be reviewed after two weeks with her husband.

Comment: You are overusing past perfect tense here. Remember this tense is used in two ways

- Reported speech: She stated that she had had poor concentration
- Past perfect: (comparing 2 past events) She complained that she had had sleep disturbance and difficulty in coping with her children over the past 2 weeks.

•For more details, review Past Perfect and Reported Speech in the Grammar and Vocabulary Clinic

Comment: Incorrect spelling : paracetamol

Comment: This sentence has no subject. You have 2 choices

- She was to be reviewed after two weeks with her husband.
- A review with her husband was scheduled after two weeks

Comment: Incorrect spelling: mood

On review today, the husband said that she has reduced speech output associated with poor visual contact, impaired planning, and some visual hallucinations and delusions for 5 days. The examination revealed depressed mood, little eye contact, disorganized speech and bizarre behavior.

I would appreciate it if you would take over the management and assessment of Mrs. Cassimatis's condition.

Sincerely yours

Dr. Ivan Henjak(GP)

Comments & Feedback

- This letter has exposed a few problems which you need to review. Basically although it is a good letter in terms of content and organisation, you have not linked sentences that well, so your sentences seem unconnected, affecting the cohesion and flow of your letter. This problem can be easily fixed with linking words and conjunctions such as and/also. See below
- As stated above, past perfect was overused so please review, and see below for better sentence structure
- Take with spelling

Re: Mrs. Alison Martin

I am writing to refer Mrs. Martin, a 28 year old teacher who has signs and symptoms consistent with schizophrenia.

Mrs. Martin is married with two children aged 4 years and 10 months and lives with her husband's parents. She has a family history of Risperidone responsive schizophrenia.

When she visited me on 09.01.2010 she was complaining of lack of interest in work, low grade temperature, and tiredness. She had lost her appetite and weight. The examination was normal and she was advised to relax, to start regular exercise and to maintain a temperature chart.

She visited me again on 20.01.2010, complaining that she had been unable to concentrate at work and that her mother in law had been against her. She also complained of sleep disturbance and difficulty in coping with her children. On examination, she was mildly depressed with little eye contact. Relaxation therapy and counseling were planned and Diazepam 10 mg tablets at night and paracetamol tablets on need were prescribed. A review with her husband was scheduled after two weeks.

On review today, the husband said that she has reduced speech output associated with poor visual contact, impaired planning, and some visual hallucinations and delusions for 5 days. The examination revealed depressed mood, little eye contact, disorganized speech and bizarre behavior.

I would appreciate it if you would take over the management and assessment of Mrs. Cassimatis's condition.